to the 20th of June, 1863, when the 1st Division of the 1st Corps, under command of Major-General George B. McClellan, having crossed the Potomac in Maryland, took position at Sharpsburg, Md., opposite the town of Antietam, and there engaged the Confederates under General Robert E. Lee, who had crossed the Potomac from Virginia, and were then in full force at Sharpsburg, Md., and at other points on the Maryland side of the Potomac. The battle was fought on the 17th of September, and resulted in a victory to the Union forces, and the retreat of the Confederates across the Potomac into Virginia. The losses on both sides were very heavy, and the total number of killed, wounded, and missing, on both sides, was estimated at about 25,000.
