

Wardak, Ali

Dr. Ali Wardak, who obtained his PhD degree from the University of Edinburgh in Scotland, is a Reader in criminology at the University of South Wales, UK. His main teaching and research interests focus on comparative and transnational crime and justice, rule of law and the relationships between state and non-state justice systems. From 2006 to 2008, Dr. Wardak worked for the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) in Kabul, and co-authored the 2007 Afghanistan Human Development Report where a 'hybrid model' for post-Taliban justice system in Afghanistan is proposed. Dr. Wardak has collaborated closely with Professor John Braithwaite in the Peacebuilding Compared research project, and is a Vice President of the South Asian Society of Criminology and Victimology. He has been invited speaker at major conferences and forums in Africa, Asia, Australia, Europe, and the United States. Dr. Wardak has published widely, and is the joint winner (with John Braithwaite) of the 2013 British Journal of Criminology Radzinowicz Prize for the English version of article that is published in this volume. On winning the prize, Dr. Wardak was congratulated by President Ashraf Ghani of Afghanistan through an official letter of appreciation.
